A PICK GALLERY on September 22th, in via Gallinari 15/C, hosts the group show Advertising the paradise with the works by Danilo Buccella (1974, Swiss), Raúl Cordero (1971, Cuba), Igor Eškinja (1975, Croatia), Diango Hernández (1970, Cuba), Federico Luger (1979, Venezuela), Gianni Pettena (1940, Italy), Michael Staniak (1982, Australia).

A group exhibition that explores the imagination, the fiction and the dream of paradise, starting from the photographs of the American journey by Gianni Pettena, passing through the canvases of a group of international artists; in a different way they tell the “paradise” of their origins. Memory, fiction and virtual produce the inspiration to create this journey to discover wonder, between physical space and emotion.

The exhibition will be visible until December 5th 2020 and it is part of EXHIBI.TO project that sees the participation of 34 realities including galleries and cultural spaces (with different opening times) in the city of Turin, in the week from 21 to 28 September 2020.
